

The results

We carried out a survey about teenager's opinion as far as it concerns how they spent their Saturday evenings and what disturbs them the most during their weekends. The results were really unexpected!

The results of the first question

About 51% of the teenagers answered that they spend their Saturdays hanging out with their friends. Only 17% answered that they play videogames or computer games. Nearly 14% answered that they sleep and around 10% answered that they usually do other things like joking or going to parties. Last but not least, 7% of them spend their Saturday evenings studying.

The results of the second question.

About 46% of teenagers answered that homework disturbs them the most. At the second place of the most disturbing things at weekends we have an even score between parents and noises (17%). Only 9% answered that siblings annoy them and the rest 7% answered that other things like family gatherings and bad weather disturbs them the most.
